

LUDWIG-MAXIMILIANS-UNIVERSITÄT MÜNCHEN

As one of Europe's leading research universities, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität (LMU) in Munich is committed to the highest international standards of excellence in research and teaching. Building on its more than 500-year-long tradition, it offers a broad spectrum that covers all areas of knowledge within its 18 Faculties, ranging from the humanities, law, economics and social sciences, to medicine and the natural sciences.

The Faculty of Physics invites applications for a Junior Professorship (W1) (for a period of 3 years) of Theoretical High Energy Physics

as part of the Elite Graduate Program "Theoretical and Mathematical Physics" commencing on 1 October 2018.

The primary tasks of the successful candidate include research and teaching in theoretical high energy physics, in particular elementary particle physics, string theory, cosmology, gauge theories and quantum gravity. The successful applicant is expected to participate in the activities of the Elite Graduate Program "Theoretical and Mathematical Physics" as well as in the teaching of the department of physics.

Prerequisites for this position are a university degree, teaching skills at university level and an aptitude for an academic career, usually evidenced by the excellent quality of a doctoral degree. If the applicant was employed as a research assistant either before or after obtaining the doctoral degree, the entire duration of the period of employment and of the doctoral degree should not exceed six years.

The position is a fixed-term professorship for the duration of three years. Pending a positive evaluation, the position may be extended by another period of three years. A conversion to an indefinite position (tenure track) is not possible.

LMU Munich makes a point of providing newly appointed professors with various types of support, such as welcoming services and assistance for dual career couples.

LMU Munich is an equal opportunity employer. The University continues to be very successful in increasing the number of female faculty members and strongly encourages applications from female candidates. LMU Munich intends to enhance the diversity of its faculty members. Furthermore, disabled candidates with essentially equal qualifications will be given preference.

Please submit your application comprising a curriculum vitae, documentation of academic degrees and certificates as well as a list of publications to the Dean of the Faculty of Physics, Schellingstr. 4, 80799 Munich, Germany, dekanat17@lmu.de, no later than 15. September 2018.